A WORK OF ART

"HEY, Louise!" Bea rushed into the ice cream parlor breathless, and wrapped her legs around a stool at the counter. "Did you get your paints yet?"

Louise jabbed her straw into a chocolate covered bubble in her soda and stared at it as it burst, "No," she answered without looking up, "my allowance won't stand for it."

"Well, don't look so beat, I have news." Bea squirmed on her seat as she looked over the menu on the wall.

"I'm hungry," she announced to the clerk, "what's good?"

"In the sandwich line," the soda jerk said, "we've got egg salad, tuna, cheese and olives . . ."

"What do you mean you've got news for me?" Louise interrupted.

Bea didn't seem to hear her. She gazed up at the menu and finally said, "I'm really hungry. Get me a double banana split."

The soda jerk walked away to fill the order.

"The news—give!" Louise said impatiently.

"You can't get those paints because your allowance won't stretch, right?" Bea asked. "Well, don't worry because I've found a place where you can get your paints for less."

"Oh, is that the news?" Louise went back to her soda. "I thought you really had something."

"Don't be a drip!" Bea continued, "And listen to me. You don't need all the colors. And you've got to enter this art contest if for no other reason than to show up Jane. The only thing she can do well is spend her father's money. It's the easiest thing in the world to beat her. She can't draw. And besides, think of Eddie. When they pin that medal on you he'll break his athletic neck in trying to date you . ."

Bea stopped abruptly as the soda jerk slid the double banana split toward her in an oversized dish.

Louise blushed a little as Bea brought up Eddie. Tall, handsome Eddie with a smile that made her feel as if she would melt. Winning the art contest of course would not put her on his three letter level, but it would certainly make her stand out in the crowd. Jane's father had money, and Jane stood out with her expensive clothes and chauffeured car. And even with that flash, Eddie was undecided about Jane. The art contest might help him decide, thought Louise. It might help a lot.

"That's gratitude," grumbled Bea, her mouth full of ice cream and bananas with a little syrup running down the corner of her chin, "I walk my feet off trying to find paints for you," she gulped, "and then this is the thanks I get."

"It's no use," Louise slowly finished her soda, "I just haven't the money to buy a set of paints."

"Must you have a complete set?" Bea tried to wipe the syrup off her face, and then gave up, "I mean couldn't you paint something you could afford? Something in one color. Like a—a chocolate soda."

Louise's face lit up. "Of course. A subject like that wouldn't take too much. Where is this place that sells paints?"

"Well, you know Tourist's Point?"

Louise nodded. That is where artists from neighboring points come to paint the bay. Art schools send their students at least once a year to the Point for sea scapes. It was well known for the artistic crowd it drew.

Bea tried to talk, but the cold ice cream was too much for her. She finally gasped and said, "There is a small art shop at Tourist's Point where the owner makes his own paints and sells for less."

"What are we waiting for?" Louise slid off her stool, "Let's go."

"Wait 'til I finish this banana split," Bea bent her head forward and bit into a small piece of fruit covered with whipped cream, nuts and syrup. "Gosh," she exclaimed, "but I'm hungry!"

. . . "When you buy this canvas you do not merely buy a painting, but you buy my soul!"

Jane was a little annoyed at this short fat artist with the long flowing hair who insisted on giving her a sales talk. She wished he would keep his voice down. This was one place that she did not wish to be seen and especially in the position of haggling with an artist.

The painting rested on a small easel on the pier that jutted out into the bay. Even with Jane's unpracticed eye, the picture looked professional. Professional enough to win an amateur contest.

"Never mind the soul," she told him hotly, "do you or don't you want to sell this painting?"

He drew himself up as high as his full five foot frame would allow and said, "I do not spread paint on canvas for the mere delight of selling it. Unfortunately," and he patted part of his stomach affectionately, "one must eat!"

Jane pointed to the lower corner of the painting, "And I'll want your name removed and mine put in its place. I'll sign it myself," she added.

"What!" shouted the artist, "remove the name of Moersby from an original Moersby painting? Surely, young lady your senses have left you! You may as well ask me to remove the moon from the heavens or rearrange the firmament. . . ."

"How much extra will it cost?" Jane asked bluntly.

The artist smiled. "You have an understanding beyond your years." He coughed slightly, "Of course we can come to terms . . ."

Jane opened her purse, "I'll give you my address, and you can send your bill to my father."

Jane had the sudden feeling that she was being watched. She turned quickly and saw a familiar figure walk into a store. It looked like Louise. She felt panicky for a moment and then decided the best course would be to leave the neighborhood at once. She picked up the painting and moved quickly toward the car.

The paintings hung on the gym wall, and the judges walked around discussing the various en-

"Looks good for your side." Louise turned to find Eddie flashing a large smile at her. She blushed a little.

"Just overheard one of the judges say that he liked yours best." He squeezed her hand and left. "Good luck," he called over his shoulder.

Louise had heard that he and Jane had a date after the contest. Jane must have felt quite certain of winning. She had bought a painting, and her name was signed to it. Alongside of the other entrants, Jane's painting stood out. It was good.

One of the judges got up on a chair, and cleared his voice. A sudden hush fell over the room.

"We, the judges, find the entries 9, 22, and 5 the winners — in that order!"

Louise felt her heart skip a beat. Twenty-two was her painting of a chocolate soda done in four colors. She had won second prize! She hastily looked at her program, although she felt sure that nine was Jane. The program verified it. Her heart sank. She could have told the judges what she had seen at Tourist's Point, but the time to speak was before the contest. Now they would simply laugh it off as sour grapes. And she was so sure that some one would recognize Jane's painting as too professional for a school girl.

"Not a bad try." It was Eddie at her side trying to console her. "Many's the time I've come in in second place. And that subject you picked looks so real, it makes me thirsty! What do you say," and Eddie gave her one of those earnest smiles that made Louise forget all about the contest. "we go out for a chocolate soda? A real one."

He took her arm before she could murmur an embarrassed protest and steered her to the door. On their way out, they passed Jane surrounded by the judges. One of them was pinning a medal to her coat. She was thanking the judges as Eddie came into view.

"Oh, Eddie," Jane called, "I'll be through here in about a half hour."

"Don't rush on my account," Eddie told her. And then Louise felt a warm glow as she heard Eddie tell Jane, "And the next time you see Roger Moersby, do me a favor and tell him that his cousin Eddie asked you to say hello!"

"I WAS ASHAMED OF MY FACE

until Viderm made my dreams of a clearer skin come true in one short week"

(FROM A LETTER TO BETTY MEMPHIS SENT HER BY ETHEL JORDAN, DETROIT, MICH.)

If your face is broken out, if bad skin is making you miserable, here is how to stop worrying about pimples, blackheads and other externally caused skin troubles.

JUST FOLLOW SKIN DOCTOR'S SIMPLE DIRECTIONS

"I just want to be alone!" Is there anything more awful than the blues that come when your face is broken out and you feel like hiding away because of pimples, blackheads and similar externally caused skin troubles? I know how it feels from personal experience. And I can appreciate the wonderful, wonderful joy that Ethel S. Jordan felt when she found something that not only promised her relief—but gave it to her in just one short week!

When I was having my own skin troubles, I tried a good many cosmetics, ointments and whatnot that were recommended to me. I remember vividly how disappointed I felt each time, until I discovered the skin doctor's formula now known as the Double Viderm Treatment. I felt pretty wonderful when friends began to rave about my "movie-star skin." No more self-consciousness. No more having my friends feel sorry for me. The secret joy, again, of running my fingertips over a smoother, clearer skin.

Many women shut themselves out of the thrills of life—dates, romance, popularity, social and business success—only because sheer neglect has robbed them of the good looks, poise and feminine self-assurance which could so easily be theirs. Yes, everybody looks at your face. The beautiful complexion, which is yours for the asking, is like a permanent card of admission to all the good things of life that every woman craves. And it really can be yours—take my word for it!—no matter how discouraged you may be this very minute about those externally caused skin miseries.

What Makes "Bad Skin" Get That Way?

Medical science gives us the truth about how skin blemishes usually develop. There are small specks of dust and dirt in the air all the time. When these get into the open pores in your skin, they can in time "stretch" the pores and make them large enough to pocket dirt particles, dust and infection. These open pores become infected and bring you the humiliation of pimples, blackheads or other blemishes. Often, the natural oils that lubricate your skin will harden in the pores and result in unsightly blemishes.

When you neglect your skin by not giving it the necessary care, you leave yourself wide open to externally caused skin miseries. Yet proper attention with the Double Viderm Treatment may mean the difference between enjoying the confidence a fine skin gives you or the embarrassment of an ugly, unbeautiful skin that makes you want to hide your face.

The Double Viderm Treatment is a formula prescribed with amazing success by a dermatologist and costs you only a few cents daily. This treatment consists of two jars. One contains Viderm Skin Cleanser, a jelly-like formula which penetrates your pores and acts as an antiseptic. After you use this special Viderm Skin Cleanser, you simply apply the Viderm Fortified Medicated Skin Cream. You rub this in, leaving an almost invisible protective covering for the surface of your skin.

This double treatment has worked wonders for so many cases of external skin troubles that it may help you, too—in fact, your money will be refunded if it doesn't. Use it for only ten days. You have everything to gain and nothing to lose. It is a guaranteed treatment. Enjoy it. Your dream of a clearer, smoother complexion may come true in ten days or less.

A screen star's face is her fortune. That's why she makes it her business to protect her complexion against pimples, blackheads and blemishes. Your face is no different. Give it the Double Treatment it needs and watch those skin blemishes go away.

Use your Double Viderm Treatment every day until your skin is smoother and clearer. Then use it only once a week to remove stale make-up and dirt specks that infect your pores, as well as to aid in healing external irritations. Remember that when you help prevent blackheads, you also help to prevent externally caused skin miseries and pimples.

Just mail your name and address to Betty Memphis, care of the New York Skin Laboratory, 206 Division Street, Dept. 99, New York 2, N. Y. By return mail you will receive the doctor's directions, and both jars, packed in a safety-sealed carton. On delivery, pay two dollars plus postage. If you wish, you can save the postage fee by mailing the two dollars with your letter. Then, if you are in any way dissatisfied, your money will be cheerfully refunded. To give you an idea of how fully tested and proven the Viderm Double Treatment is, it may interest you to know that, up to this month, over two hundred and thirty-one thousand women have ordered it on my recommendation. If you could only see the thousands of happy, grateful letters that have come to me as a result, you would know the joy this simple treatment can bring. And, think of it!—the treatment must work for you, or it doesn't cost you a cent.
